Houthi attacks in the Red Sea are delaying new fashion National Garment Fair opens in city

By Our Staff Reporter

WASHINGTON, JAN. 29 (AP)

Spring fashion lines are delayed at a popular British department store. A Maryland company that makes hospital supplies doesn't know when to expect parts from Asia.

The British retail chain Marks and Spencer warned that the turmoil would delay new spring clothing and home goods collections that were due in February and March. Chief executive Stuart Machin said the Red Sea trouble was "impacting everyone and something we're very focused on".

Attacks on ships in the Red Sea are delivering another shock to global trade, coming on top of pandemic-related logjams at ports and Russia's invasion of Ukraine.

Houthi rebels in Yemen, seeking to stop Israel's offensive against Hamas in Gaza, are attacking cargo ships plying the waters connecting Asia with Europe and the United States, forcing traffic away from the Suez Canal and around the tip of Africa. The disruption is causing delays and driving up costs — at a time when the world has yet to vanquish a resurgence of inflation.

"What's happened right now is short-term chaos, and chaos leads to increased costs," said Ryan Petersen, CEO of the supply
